PUBLIC NOTICE

Contra Costa County Public Works to Temporarily Close Section of Jersey Island Road Bridge and Require Short-term Load Restriction on Passable Section

What: Due to a recent inspection of the Jersey Island Road Bridge by Caltrans Structure Maintenance and Investigations, Contra Costa County Public Works will temporarily close the northbound lane on the bridge and install short-term load restriction signs. Temporary traffic signals will be installed at either end of the bridge to control the one-lane condition on the bridge. The temporary restrictions will be in place until a repair project can be installed, expected by summer 2019.

Where: Jersey Island Road Bridge over Dutch Slough in the unincorporated area of East Contra Costa County, northeast of the City of Oakley.

When: Load restriction signs and one lane traffic controls will be installed within the next two weeks. Repair work is expected to be completed in the summer of 2019.
